Dear Pastors and Parish Life Coordinators,

More information has come in from the USCCB regarding the Obama accommodation to the original HHS Mandate. The accommodation is not acceptable because it still violates conscience rights and religious liberty.

I am enclosing a memo to the Pastors of the Country and also a bulletin insert that the Bishops' Conference asks be used next Sunday if possible. The bulletin insert in Spanish is also enclosed.

Sincerely yours in the Risen Lord,

Most Rev. Michael J. Sheehan
Archbishop of Santa Fe

Re: URGENT: USCCB Bulletin Insert on HHS Mandates:
Sweeping HHS Mandate Stands, Violating Conscience Rights and Religious Liberty
Congress Must Act to Fix the Problem

For many years, the U.S. bishops have supported access to life-affirming health care for all. During the health care reform debate in Congress you received a number of urgent USCCB memoranda calling for health care legislation that would advance the goal of truly universal, life-affirming health care: upholding longstanding federal policies against abortion funding, protecting rights of conscience, and not leaving immigrants worse off.

On January 20, the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) reaffirmed a rule that virtually all private health care plans must cover sterilization, abortifacients, and contraception. The rule exempted "religious employers," but excluded those that served or employed people who were not members of their religious community. This was so narrow that it failed to cover the vast majority of faith-based organizations, including Catholic hospitals, universities, and service organizations that help millions every year.

After hearing an outcry from many groups, on February 10, the Obama Administration issued a final rule that kept the same broad mandate, and same narrow exception, in place "without change." In addition, the Administration gave some religious non-profits an extra year to comply, and promised to issue more rules that "accommodate" them. But even under this future "accommodation," our charities, hospitals and colleges will still be treated as second-class-citizens of our religious community, and still be forced to pay for coverage that violates their religious convictions. This is unacceptable.

We urgently need legislation to correct the mandate's threats to religious liberty and conscience rights. The Respect for Rights of Conscience Act has been introduced in Congress (H.R. 1179, S. 1467) to ensure that those who participate in the market for health insurance "retain the right to provide, purchase, or enroll in health coverage that is consistent with their religious beliefs and moral convictions."

To mobilize Catholics to contact Congress, the USCCB is offering the attached urgent bulletin insert. As with our past health care reform efforts, please share this bulletin insert with your parishes and Catholic organizations and agencies as quickly as possible. Even if legislation should change, the action site noted on the Bulletin Insert can change quickly.

More information can be found at www.usccb.org/conscience. Thank you for your urgent actions and prayers on behalf of this nationwide effort!

BULLETIN INSERT

Sweeping HHS Mandate Stands, Violating Conscience Rights and Religious Liberty Congress Must Act to Fix the Problem

On January 20, the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) reaffirmed a rule that virtually all private health care plans must cover sterilization, abortifacients, and contraception. The exemption provided for "religious employers" was so narrow that it failed to cover the vast majority of faith-based organizations—including Catholic hospitals, universities, and charities—that help millions every year. Ironically, not even Jesus and his disciples would have qualified for the exemption, because it excludes those who mainly serve people of another faith.

On February 10, the Obama Administration made this rule final "without change"; delayed enforcement for a year against religious nonprofits that were still not exempted (our charities, hospitals, and colleges); and promised to develop more regulations to "accommodate" them by the end of that additional year. But, as explained below, that promised "accommodation" still forces them to pay for "services" that violate their religious convictions.

The original rule that violated our religious liberty so severely has not been changed, but finalized.

After touting meaningful changes in the mandate, HHS instead finalized the original rule that was first issued in August 2011 "without change." So the offensive definition of "religious employer"—which excludes our charities, hospitals, and colleges because they serve people of other faiths—is still in place, and those institutions are still subject to the mandate.

HHS has promised some kind of "accommodation," but only after the election.

HHS said it would take an additional year to develop more regulations to "accommodate" religiously-affiliated charities, schools, and hospitals that still fall outside the "religious employer" exemption. The impact of these additional rules will not be felt until after the election, the only point of public accountability for the Executive Branch. This eliminates an important incentive for HHS to provide the best protection for religious liberty.

The promised "accommodation"—even at its best—would still force our institutions to violate their beliefs.

Under the proposed "accommodation," if an employee of these religious institutions wants coverage of contraception or sterilization directly from the insurer, the objecting employer is still forced to pay for it as a part of the employer's insurance plan. Since there is no other source, the funds to pay for that coverage must come from the premiums of the employer and fellow employees, even those who object in conscience.

There is no exemption for objecting insurers, secular employers, for-profit religious employers, or individuals.

The U.S. bishops defend religious liberty for all, and so have repeatedly identified all the stakeholders in the process whose religious freedom is threatened by the mandate—all employers, insurers, and individuals, not just religious employers. Now, all insurers, including self-insurers, must provide the coverage to any employee who wants it. In turn, all individuals who pay premiums have no escape from subsidizing that coverage. And only employers that are both non-profit and religious may qualify for the limited "accommodation."

We urgently need legislation to correct the mandate's threats to religious liberty and conscience rights. The Respect for Rights of Conscience Act has been introduced in Congress (H.R. 1179, S. 1467) to ensure that those who participate in the market for health insurance "retain the right to provide, purchase, or enroll in health coverage that is consistent with their religious beliefs and moral convictions."

MESSAGE: "Please co-sponsor and support the Respect for Rights of Conscience Act (H.R. 1179, S. 1467). The Obama administration's decision to mandate coverage of sterilization and contraceptives, including drugs that can cause an abortion, makes passage of this measure especially urgent. Please ensure that the religious liberty and conscience rights of all participants in our nation's health care system are respected."

WHEN: Now is the time to build co-sponsors and support. Please act today! Thanks!

VOLANTE PARA BOLETINES

Mandato general de HHS se queda igual, viola los derechos de conciencia y la libertad religiosa Congreso tiene que actuar para arreglar el problema

El 20 de enero de 2011, el Departamento de Salud y Servicios Humanos (HHS, sigla en inglés) reafirmó una regulación que exige que casi todos los planes de salud cubran la esterilización, los abortivos y la contracepción. La exención que se ofreció a "los empleadores religiosos" era tan estrecha que no cubría a la gran mayoría de organizaciones religiosas, incluso a hospitales, universidades y organizaciones católicas caritativas, que ayudan a millones cada año. Irónicamente, ni siquiera Jesús y sus discípulos habrían calificado para la exención debido a que excluye a los que principalmente sirven a personas de otra religión.

El 10 de febrero, la Administración de Obama declaró que este mandato es final "sin ningún cambio"; una prórroga de un año para organizaciones religiosas que no estaban exentas (las organizaciones caritativas, hospitales y universidades); y la promesa de redactar más regulaciones para "acomodarlas" dentro del plazo de ese año adicional. Sin embargo, como se explica abajo, ese "acomodamiento" todavía los obliga a pagar "servicios" que violan sus convicciones religiosas.

La regla original que violaba nuestra libertad religiosa tan severamente no ha cambiado, sino que se ha concretado.

Después de anunciar cambios significativos en el mandato, HHS en cambio concretó la regla original emitida por primera vez en agosto de 2011, "sin cambio". Es así que la ofensiva definición de un "empleador religioso" —que excluye a nuestras organizaciones caritativas, hospitales y colegios porque sirven a personas de otras religiones— aún sigue en pie, y todas esas instituciones aún están obligadas a cumplir con el mandato.

HHS ha prometido algún tipo de "acomodamiento" pero sólo después de las elecciones.

HHS expresó que tomaría un año más para redactar más regulaciones que "acomoden" a las organizaciones religiosas caritativas, escuelas y hospitales que aún siguen fuera de la exención para los "empleadores religiosos". El impacto de estas reglas adicionales no se sentirá hasta después de las elecciones presidenciales, el único punto para que el Poder Ejecutivo tenga que rendir cuenta. Esto elimina un incentivo importante para que HHS proporcione la mejor protección de la libertad religiosa.

El prometido "acomodamiento", aún en el mejor de los casos, seguiría obligando a nuestras instituciones a violar sus creencias religiosas.

Conforme al propuesto "acomodamiento", si un empleado de estas instituciones religiosas desea cobertura de anticonceptivos o esterilización directamente del asegurador, el empleador opuesto a esto estará obligado a pagar como parte del plan de seguros del empleador. Ya que no hay otra fuente, los fondos para pagar esta cobertura provendrán de las primas que paguen el empleador y sus empleados, aún de los que por conciencia se opongan a ello.

No están exentos los asegurados, empleadores laicos o religiosos con fines de lucro ni individuos que objetan.

Los obispos católicos defienden la libertad religiosa para todos, y por eso repetidas veces han identificado a todas las partes interesadas en este proceso cuya libertad religiosa está siendo amenazada: todos los empleadores, los aseguradores y los individuos, y no solo los empleadores religiosos. Ahora todos los aseguradores, incluidos los que se aseguran por su cuenta, deben proveer esta cobertura a cualquier empleado que lo desee. A su vez, todos los individuos que pagan sus primas de seguro, no tienen escapatoria de tener que subsidiar esa cobertura. Y solo los empleadores que son entidades religiosas y a la vez no lucrativas, podrán calificar para este "acomodamiento" limitado.

Urgentemente necesitamos legislación para corregir las amenazas del mandato a la libertad religiosa y los derechos de conciencia. La Ley de Respeto a los Derechos de Conciencia se ha introducido en el Congreso (H.R. 1179, S. 1467) para asegurar que quienes participan en la compra de seguro de salud "retengan el derecho de proporcionar, comprar o afiliarse a una cobertura de salud que sea conforme a sus creencias religiosas y convicciones morales".

ACCIÓN: Comuníquese con su Representante en el Congreso por correo electrónico, teléfono o fax:

- Llame al conmutador del Capitolio de EE. UU. al: 202-224-3121, o a las oficinas locales de sus congresistas.
- Envíe un mensaje electrónico al Congreso a través de www.usccb.org/conscience.
- Encontrará datos adicionales de contacto en los sitios digitales de los Miembros: www.house.gov y www.senate.gov

MENSAJE: "Por favor, copatrocine Ley de Respeto a los Derechos de Conciencia (H.R. 1179, S. 1467). La decisión de la administración de Obama de exigir cobertura de esterilización y anticonceptivos, incluso fármacos que pueden causar un aborto, hacen que la aprobación de esta medida sea especialmente urgente. Asegúrese de que la libertad religiosa y los derechos de conciencia de todos los participantes en el sistema de atención de la salud de nuestra nación se respeten".

CUANDO: Ahora es el momento de conseguir copatrocinadores y apoyo. ¡Por favor actúe hoy mismo! ¡Gracias!
